

MCERTS Bulletin 7 – Diurnal Flow Patterns

The MCERTS Minimum Requirements standard states that the Consent holder is responsible for supplying a typical diurnal flow pattern for the site. This is causing some difficulty since the data is often not readily available.

Therefore, until further notice, it is acceptable for MCERTS Inspectors to exercise professional judgement and use the best data available at the time. This may include standardised curves, data available at the time of inspection or data gathered after the inspection.